Take DRI CANADA'S In-House BCM Courses. Save Money!

Organizations today face wide-ranging threats. Preparing for them takes hard work and forethought. Yet how do you take the necessary Business Continuity Management courses – when training and travel dollars are so limited?

The answer is DRI CANADA's in-house and on-line courses. This fall, we're offering two ways for your organization to reduce its training and travel costs while still ensuring your team has the skills necessary to handle the unexpected.

Taking our in-house courses is a great way to save money. For as few as 7 people we can deliver course that suits your needs – at a significant discount – and we'll send the instructor to you. There's no travel involved.

And, our even lower-priced on-line courses are self-paced and can be completed over a two-week period. This is ideal for busy professionals, who can now work right at their own desks completing the courses in convenient periods of time.

Examples of in-house and on-line courses being offered right now include:

- One Day Management Business Continuity Overview
- 2 1/2 Day Business Continuity Planning Review
- 5 day Business Continuity Planning , Accelerated Certificate
- And others presented on our website, www.dri.ca

Now is the ideal time to take advantage of this valuable opportunity to learn Business Continuity Management practices – and receive DRI International certification that's recognized worldwide.

DRI CANADA is a tested, proven and accepted source of BCM education. Our programs help graduates save organizations effort, time and money. DRI CANADA manages and administers the DRI International education and certification programs in Canada.
