

BASIC EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT SYSTEM (BEM)

AWARENESS ADVANCED KNOWLEDGE PRACTICUM

This Provincial certification course provides an overview of the emergency management in Ontario including systems, processes and key elements focusing on prevention, mitigation, preparedness for, response to and recovery from emergencies and disasters. Through a variety of presentations, case studies, group work and simulations, you will learn about the key provisions of the Emergency Management and Civil Protection Act.

You will gain knowledge about essential roles and responsibilities of all level of government (local, provincial and federal) and key organizations involved in emergency management, how they interrelate and apply. The principle elements of creating and maintaining a community and organizational emergency plan and resilience will be highlighted.

Duration/ delivery: 2 days in classroom session, includes an exam and provincial certification. Please note that this course requires 100% attendance. The course is facilitated by provincial / local certified instructors.

Certificate: Upon completion, you will receive a certificate of completion from Emergency Management Ontario. This certification is the prerequisite for more advanced courses offered by EMO.

Cost: $200.00 / all course material will be provided and no special equipment is required.

Date: December 10, 11, 2011 Location: Morningside Campus, 755 Morningside Ave., Toronto

REGISTER ONLINE: centennialcollege.ca/empsi/bem

Who Should Take This Training

The BEM course is offered to individual and personnel from all sectors, organizations and communities who play an active role in emergency management, public health, safety and business continuity planning (primary and alternates) or those who wish to build their career.

As well: Municipal and Provincial Emergency Management Coordinators; members of emergency management program committees; members of Municipal Control Group; municipal staff and others who are part of support or advisory groups playing an active role in Emergency Operations Centre (department heads, administration, members of council, social service providers, volunteer managers); first responders & health care officials (police, firefighters, paramedics, public health and hospital administrators).

The BEM course can benefit all working professional in the field of disaster, emergency and business continuity management, existing and aspiring working professional, senior and mid-level managers, coordinators, practitioners.

Students: This course also provides police foundation, pre-service firefighter and paramedic program's students with essential skills and knowledge, needed in their future roles in an emergency all it applies with first / front line responders, site incident.

You may also be interested in the IMS 200 - Basic Incident Management System (IMS) course:
centennialcollege.ca/empsi/ims200

Contact Information: Ginette Soulieres, EMPSI Manager at 416-289-5000 ext. 8373

E-Mail: gsoulieres@centennialcollege.ca

centennialcollege.ca/empsi

The Future of Learning

Inspiring leadership through strategic integrated networks of learning